Fourth Edition of Charles Glasser’s “International Libel and Privacy Handbook” Released by LexisNexis® Matthew Bender®

Described by journalists, media lawyers and journalism educators as “indispensable” and the “go-to authority” on media law around the globe, “International Libel and Privacy Handbook” is now being distributed by LexisNexis® Matthew Bender®.

In an age of instant global access through digital media, it is vitally important that journalists, authors and publishers, as well as the lawyers who serve them, have a quick and accessible guide to the rules of the road covering media, worldwide. The ultimate resource for all the media content providers and purveyors, this fully updated and expanded Fourth Edition of the critically-acclaimed handbook offers instant access to relevant libel and privacy laws and important legal rulings in the Europe, Asia, the Middle East and the Americas. The Fourth Edition offers nation-by-nation summaries of libel and privacy law written by local expert practitioners in an easy-to-use reference format, and has been expanded to include coverage of important emerging territories as well as new chapters on emerging media markets—including the Czech Republic, Argentina, Israel, and others, with an expanded section on the Middle East and an all-new comprehensive chapter on the media law rulings of the European Court of Human Rights.

Charles Glasser spent twelve years as the Global Media Counsel for Bloomberg News, where he was responsible for pre-publication review, ethics issues, and training more than 2,200 reporters in more than 120 bureaus around the world on legal issues and journalistic fundamentals, particularly focusing on investigative and business news. He also managed media litigation globally, and is acknowledged as an expert in international media law. Prior to joining Bloomberg, Mr. Glasser represented a wide variety of publications including Reader’s Digest, the New York Post, Star magazine, and others. He currently manages his own consultancy, providing legal and media ethics advice to publishers, managing Freedom of Information litigation and providing content and privacy guidelines to web-based startups, as well as counseling on editorial operations and content management. He is also an Adjunct Professor of Media Ethics and Law at New York University’s Arthur Carter Center Graduate School of Journalism. Prior to studying law, Glasser was a journalist for wire services and newspapers in the Caribbean, Asia and the UK.
